Humphries Speaks.
Fulton Superior Judge John D.
Humphries outlined the history of the legal profession in Georgia, the development of the courts and legal practice.

Of the relationship of the legislature to the judiciary and the obligation of lawyers to the courts,

the judge said:
"While it is the right of the general assembly to pass laws, civil and criminal, which advance the rights of citizens and promote the general welfare of the state, the trial of a case and the obligations of a lawyer to the court in that trial relate peculiarly and exclusively to the judiciary. The legislature may adopt laws which will measure the rights of the parties, but it cannot hinder, delay or control the courts in the adjudication of those rights."

Tonight, Governor Rivers pre-sided at the annual convention banquet at which McKibben Lane, of Macon, and Charles Milton Newcomb, of Candler, N. C., made humorous addresses. On the afternoon session today, Theo Coleman, of Valdosta; Henry Hammond, of Augusta, and W. W.

At Cincinnati, where the American Federation of Labor executive council was in session, Joe Ozanic, president of the Progressive Miners' of America, announced the council had granted a charter to the PMA, dependent union. He said the action ousted district 12 of the Unit-ed Mine Workers of America, a CIO union, from the Illinois Federation of Labor and made the PMA the "only bonafide miners" union in the coal fields.

Following on the heels of an announcement by Ford Motor Company officials that a riot Wednesday at its plant near Detroit was "staged" to "cover up fail-ure" of the United Automobile Workers of America to organize Ford workers, Homer Martin, president of the union, said his organizers were making plans for another attempt to distribute handbills at the factory.

Two other Ford plants were the sites of disputes. At Richmond, Cal., the CIO and AFL competed for representation among employes who went on strike Wednesday. DEBATE ON INTEREST In Recovery Parade BALKS HOTEL ACTIO

Attorneys Weigh Taxation by U. S. of 'Forgiven' Interest.

A move in United States court to reorganize the Atlanta Bilt-more Hotel Corporation faced further delay yesterday as attor-neys wrestled with the question of whether "forgiven" 'interest is sub-ject to the new federal capital

Under the reorganization pro-posal by the corporation, present bondholders would be "forgiven" approximately $380,000 of interest. Should this be construed as a capital gain, it would be liable to a tax of about $150,000.

Officials in Washington and attorneys here are studying the problem and have expressed hope of an early solution.

The question arose when the government appeared in the case to ask that a stipulation, protecting any tax claim the government might have, be included in the reorganization order.

Judge E. Marvin Underwood, who heard the case a week ago, was said to be withholding his de-cision until the tax issue is cleared by attorneys.

Demands 'Slander' Be Stopped or Critics Will Face

BERLIN, May 28.—(P)—Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels called upon the Catholic hierarchy to cease what he called its "slander" of Nazi justice under threat of being called into court to testify under oath.

Goebbels, in a speech of an hour and a half which was billed as an "answer" to the critical words of George, Cardinal Mundelein, in Chicago, mentioned the cardinal but once.

Instead he devoted most of his speech to a bitter attack on the Catholic clergy in general.
Of Cardinal Mundelein he declared:

"A Catholic cardinal in America named Mundelein made a speech in which he insulted our Fuehrer (Adolf Hitler) in the most unqualified manner and called me the crooked propaganda minister of Germany who has these trials (trials of Catholic priests and lay brothers on im-morality charges) staged only to harm the persecuted Catholic church church.
"He casts complete doubt on the correctness of these trials and has the nerve to compare them with atrocity propaganda conducted against Germany during the World War."

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 29, 1937.

BRITAIN'S NEW PRIME MINISTER.

Neville Chamberlain became prime minister of Great Britain yesterday. He succeeds Stanley Baldwin as the occupant of Number Ten Downing street, that unpretentious London residence which houses the man who is, in actuality, far more the head of the constitutional British government than the titular monarch.

King George VI, invested last week as ruler of the far flung empire amid all the coronation pomp and circumstance, fulfils an important role. He is the symbol of empire, the human focus on which British idealism and British fealty centers. It is, however, the prime minister who dictates the policy of the realm, who heads the government and who, in the final analysis, rules the kingdom. The King becomes the symbolic figure for whom Britons fight or die, if need be. The prime minister is the man who determines whether the course of the nation shall lead to war or peace.

Neville Chamberlain brings to his new responsibility a strange mixture of characteristics which are, nevertheless, typical of the new Englishman. In his veins flows the blood of conservatism, of statecraft and of bookkeeping. He has been described as a thin, austere man possessing the type of humor that "would make him the life of a funeral party."

He is, in a sense, a dictator, yet he is the complete antithesis of Mussolini. He is a dictator in that, having determined upon a policy he believes right, he sticks to that policy inflexibly and by reiterated, quiet, calm reasoning wins other men to that same belief.

He exemplified this ability when he presented to the house of commons, last month, one of the stiffest national budgets of the past decade, including a $7,500,000,000 defense program. Serenely he calmed the storm of protest at the necessary increased taxes by declaring the proposal an "ever-quickening approach to the goal of safety."

Neville Chamberlain inherits his conservatism from his father, the great "Joe" Chamberlain, a cabinet member in the days of Gladstone, Lord Salisbury and Balfour. He is a halfbrother of the late Sir Austen Chamberlain, father of the Locarno treaty.

He entered public life in municipal politics in his home city of Birmingham, serving as lord mayor of that industrial center. He was first elected to parliament in 1916. In 1931 he became chancellor of the exchequer, two months after Britain went off the gold standard. His role immediately became that of new tax hunter.

He demanded rigid government economy and succeeded in tightening the purse strings almost to the breaking point. He found his new tax sources and, although public support for heavier taxation did not immediately follow, he demonstrated his quality of leadership by ultimately winning the electorate to realization that his program was the only stable course

Quiet, rarely smiling, secretive. A man who looks askance at new and untried ways of government or of life. A man who possesses in full degree the proverbial British stubbornness and the ability to hold to a charted course through every storm of criticism and disapproval.

A man who depends solely upon logic to win support and who scorns forensic fireworks. A typical Briton who may, despite best intentions. stumble into trouble but who, if he does, will work and fight his way through in a direct line, scorning subterfuge or evasion.

Such a man is the new prime minister of Great Britain.

"SCIENTIFIC" WARFARE

Descriptions of modern methods of slaughter used in the war in Spain, written by reliable correspondents, outrage every decent sensibility.

Reports of the wholesale slaughter of innocent noncombatants by German air squadrons provide grim and frightful warning of the fate to be expected by women and children of the warring nations in future conflicts.

It is told of a German squadron leader, fighting on the Rebel side, who desired to test the efficiency of the new "strategy" of the air. He led his flight over an unfortified, unprotected Spanish village inhabited only by women, children and aged men, and deliberately flew low, spraying the helpless civilians with streams of bullets from his machine guns. Then dropped incendiary bombs that reduced the village to a burning pyre upon the slaughtered inhabitants. Returning from this "experiment in strategy," the German air commander pronounced it a complete success! The human guinea pigs whose bodies lay in mute sacrifice among the smoking ruins of their homes provided proof of that "success."

An American correspondent, describing the air attack upon an unfortified suburb of Bilbao, reports German planes first dropped high exsive bombs which drove the civilian population to basements, cellars and protective dugouts. When such time had elapsed that the terrified people were emerging from their hiding places, a second squadron flew low, pouring machine gun fire into the crowds upon the streets, mowing them down like defenseless sheep.

When the survivors of this second assault had again sought safety below ground, a third enemy flight dropped incendiary bombs, wrecking the buildings and setting the ruins on fire, to smother and incinerate the cowering people below them.

A Russian air force, fighting on the side of the government defenders of Bilbao, bombed a Rebel army camp. In retaliation, the German aviators on the side of the Rebels attacked yet another town, mowing down hundreds of women waiting in bread lines for their daily food allotment.

On the battlegrounds of Spain and in her helpless towns and villages is being demonstrated today, by trained fighters of Italy, Germany, Russia and other nations, the methods of warfare which in future will destroy, not the enemy armed forces, but entire populations. War has ever been horrible, but under such methods it becomes impossible, if human life is to continue. Spain provides an object lesson to the world which, unless heeded, presages the end of world civilization as we know it today.

TROUBLE AT THE "PORK" TROUGH

Insurgent congressmen on Tuesday broke away from the administration program in an effort to earmark portions of the proposed $1,500,000,000 appropriation for federal relief for specific purposes.

While there is a strong and growing sentiment in the country that the appropriation is too large for essential relief work in a nation which has resumed the ratio of employment that existed in 1929, prior to the depression, public opinion undoubtedly favors leaving the expenditure of this money to President Roosevelt for use as he may direct on the lines set down in the appropriation measure.

It is the hope of conservative factions, which see balancing of the federal budget as essential to continued national prosperity, that the senate will reduce the relief appropriation by $500,000,000, making the total $1,000,000,000. Such an economy may be effected, it is believed, without danger of suffering to the unemployed and at the same time curtail expenditures which are now annually adding to the national debt.

However, there was one major amendment added to the bill in its stormy course in the house to which few will object. That provides that unskilled and agricultural workers who refuse private jobs will be ineligible for work relief as long as the private job is available.

Enforcement of such a provision would go far toward solving the labor shortage problem now existing in the agricultural regions of Georgia and other states. It would likewise remove from the public relief rolls those, happily a minority, who prefer the comparative ease of existence "on relief" to equal, or larger, pay for honest labor in private employment.

No one would advocate forcing men to take work for which they are physically or temperamentally unsuited at wages on which they and their dependents cannot subsist. However, elimination of ordinary laborers who reject jobs paying $7.50 a week for six days' work in order to qualify for relief jobs that pay $4.80 for two days' work, and permit idleness for four days, will remove much of the criticism against federal relief administration. At the same time itwill permit reduction of the appropriation to $1,000,000,000 without causing suffering in the ranks of those who must yet be supported by expenditure of public funds.

$200 PER ACRE

Sixty acres of Lucretia dewberries at McRae, Ga., the property of Dr. W. H. Born, have produced 20 carloads of the fruit this year. The crop was sold to a large winery for $80 a ton. making a total return of $12,000, or an average of $200 per acre.

A large Georgia winery has purchased 500 tons of Georgia blackberries and is reported to be in the market for another 500 tons. Thus the prediction that legalization of wine making in Georgia would provide a new cash crop for her agriculturists begins to come true. As the excellence of Georgia wines is more fully realized by consumers and as new wineries are established in the state, the market for fruit will increase. The day when every section suited to fruit culture receives its share of this new income is not far distant.

Wine is rightfully a food. It is so regarded in Europe and inclusion of natural wines in alcoholic beverage elassification has always been a mistake. There is a tremendous potential income for Georgia farmers in peaches, grapes, berries and other fruits suitable for wine making. Increased consumption of natural wine will mean increased prosperity for the state. It will likewise mean increased temperance, for the man or woman with a palate that appreciates the delicate flavor of good, natural wine is not apt to be a consumer of strong liquors in quantity.

Editorial of the Day

BALANCE THEM

(From the Detroit News.) Protest against abandoning the field of education to the so-called practical courses of study was voiced at the recent meeting of the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers. Said one of the principal speakers: "When the depression came, many were driven to despair and some to suicide because the only world and creed they had were those of material success. We must provide for our children in a world of spiritual values."

This attitude was to be expected with the release from depression pessimism. In difficult economic times it is natural to stress in the training of children those studies intended to help them make a living. When getting the bare necessities of life ceases to occupy a large place in public thought, attention turns to enlargement of life and enjoyment of intellectual and spiritual ad-

Unquestionably there is a balance that should be sought in planning public education. Administrators of industry have asked co-operation of educators that a better grade of material be of-fered for industry's pay rolls. This is certainly

But wise educators know that human beings need preparation for something more than the earning of a living. To be able to enjoy and profit by the living earned, a human being needs cul-ture, ideals, and strongly fortified character. Those so trained not only may expect to earn more, but they will be able to meet with wisdom and fortitude those inevitable times when earning becomes difficult or impossible.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS By PAUL MALLON.

SOCIAL NOTE WASHINGTON, May 28.—The average congressman around here has learned of President Roosevelt largely by reading the newspapers. The busiest of all White House occupants has found little time and few occasions to meet personally with the great bulk of his legislators.

For this reason, there was excitement in the house smoking room the other day when Mr. Roccessell's legislative ligitors are Charles.

the other day when Mr. Roosevelt's legislative liaison man, Charles West, delivered a few verbal invitations for a night visit to the White House. Not much more enthusiasm would have been aroused by a personal invitation to the Windsor--Warfield nuptials.

guests trooped into the executive mansion, howeve they looked at each other and discovered that they were the joint nittee considering Mr. Roosevelt's government reorganization

OVERSIGHT This took the edge off the festivities slightly, but they had a very nice long personal chat with the chief executive, discussing such problems as the proposed six new executive secretaries, the proposed creation of two new government

The callers must have been further discouraged when they left and discovered no newsmen or photographers around. Their call went wholly unreported in the press thereafter, and some of them med to consider it a political, if not a social, slight. At any rate, they again considered the reorganization program agreement than before their sight-seeing trip downtown. NORMALITY Subsequent negotiations were effective in pushing the committee along toward further work on its four bills. Perhaps, in the end, the White House talk was partly following and discovered they were nowhere nearer an Legislative authorities believe there should be and probably will be more of these West-conducted tours to the executive mansion. Such talks represent co-operation which is essential between the legislative and executive branches. They are needed far more at this time than in the recent past because both branches now appear to be resuming their normal places, after the hectic depression period in which congress was little more than a typewriter writing executive laws.

CHART Not much news is contained in the government's bal-anced business figures this month. There have probably been few times in history when industrial production has fluc-tuated so narrowly in accord with seasonal expectations as since the first of the year. An average level of 117 per cent of the 1923-'25 "normal" has been closely maintained.

the strike threat caused cessations of demand). Current strikes may cut into steel. Prospects are that textiles will go lower. Coal is regaining. Ford production is being threat-ened. The immediate outlook, therefore, is not encouraging, but would be, if the strike situation cleared.

PURCHASING POWER A strong economic factor lately has been farm income. The Agriculture Department has been giving out figures, generally unnoticed, indicating that farm income for April was up to an index of 89, as compared with 81.5 in March and about 70 a year ago. In the first months of the year, farm purchasing power was 16 per cent higher than a year ago. It is due entirely to better prices, as the volume of marketing during the first four months was 5 per cent less than last year.

MASTER The greatest speech which the famous Idaho orator. Senator Borah, ever made was one which was not re-corded and will never be. It was delivered extemporaneously in a recent executive session of those members of the senate judiciary committee opposed to court packing. Mr. Borah was asked by another member to name someone to write the anti-packing report. He replied that it should be a Democrat and then launched free expression of his opinion that these Democrats had displayed courage on a great issue. Years hence, he said, senators would be reading their words, just as they are now reading Webster and Calhoun. No greater example of devotion to principle in the face of political obstacles could be found in history.

At the end, two hard-boiled old senators were actually weeping and the rest were coughing into their handkerchiefs to keep from it.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER. McNutt's NEW YORK, May 28. A cruel world may laugh out loud at the diplomatic mishap to Paul V. Mc-Nutt in Manila, but little Tom Taggart, of French Lick, Ind., will be one who does not see the humor of the incident. Mr. Taggart's horse fell on his face at the very first jump after years of schooling and training and a few rather dashing victories in the minor politics of the American Legion and his old home state.

As an old horseman, Mr. Taggart set mighty high store by his McNutt. A show horse, McNutt was, with grace and style and body, and arch to his neck and a big, bold stride. Not a favorite, to be sure, but impressive neverthess, and Mr. Taggart saw qualities in him which were invisible o impartial experts.

But a man is likely to lean to his own charger, minimizing his faults and the virtues of his opponents and, moreover, anything can happen in racing, baseball and politics. There was a chance that some other steed would be kicked at the barrier or take the fence or run the wrong way, and the haz-ards of the track seemed as strong against the others.

But then it happened to Mr. Taggart's steed first, and if you look closely you will see little Tom down there by the first jump giving his McNutt many rapid kicks n the slats ere he turns to walk home past the derisive throng in stands, who always thought Mr. Taggart had nothing better than a quarter-miler, anyway.

History And how very odd it is, Repeats to be sure, that history should repeat in this particular way in the career of another stalwart Indiana statesman. Mr. McNutt was sent to the Philippines with high hopes, and st a little prestige, and hardly had he shaken the wrinkles out of his white linen suits when he krag if they didn't.

FAIR ENOUGH Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

My Dear Louise: When you are told the truth about history, which isn't printed in school books, you simmer with indignation and that shows you are civilized; but you must also learn to hate injustice that is near at hand and understand that all weapons are equally cruel if they make the same kind of wounds.

When Russia began her war against Germany, she sent her peasants to do the fighting. The peasants were braver than any other soldiers in that war, but they soon began to lose because they had nothing to fight with. They starved because food didn't come; they died of disease for want of medical supplies; and they fought with bayonets or clubbed rifles or even stones for want of Nobody knows how many died, for there is no record. Usually the figure is placed at something over eight million. Anyway, the survivors got tired of it at last and quit the war and went home to smash their betrayers.

The world looked on in helpless rage and contempt, for it didn't know about the betrayal—though it should have known if it knew Russia

The Russian seems to have no capacity for loyalty. The loyalty of peasants was obtained with a whip and that of nobles with a When the peasants fought Japan, they were sold out and betrayed by their officers, and the process was repeated when they fought Germany. While they died for want of munitions, billions of dollars' worth of war material rusted and rotted back home or fell into the wrong hands. Nice gentlemen, who had always lived at the peasant's expe stole the war material or accepted German bribes to keep it from the front. And the peasants died for want of it.

To you that seems the basest of all treachery. There is no form To you that seems the pasest of all treachery. There is no told of punishment to fit such a crime.

But, my dear, the crime is not that of taking bribes or withholding war supplies, but of exploiting and tricking fellowmen—of fattening on the misery of the mistreated.

The method doesn't matter, but only the effect. Whether you between fighting man or hold men in slavery, or make the helpless betray fighting men, or hold men in slavery, or make the helpless work for starvation wages, or sell fake cures to suffering illiterates, the crimes are all equally base, for the purpose is to profit by trick-and exploiting the underdog.

That is the cause of most of the world's woe and to take advantage of a servant's necessity and pay her a pauper wage is to share the guilt of all who profit by human misery.

Argument Against Social Security Assailed as Asinine in Entirety With Declaration Few Georgians Will Be Misled by Fight on Amendments.

REPUBLICAN ARGUMENT ASSAILED AS ASININE

(From The Brunswick News.) Georgia's Republican forces, as weak as they are, have aligned themselves in opposition to the state-wide constitutional amendments to be voted upon by Geor-gians in the election of June 8, and as Republicans they are assail-ing a democratic platform adopted by a democratic state convention. Recently the Georgia Republican executive committee adopted a resolution condemning the social security and old-age pension program as "a cheap piece of claptrap legislation," but it stands as an attack by Republicanism against anything Democratic. The Republicans of Georgia are ever Democratic policy or platform.

Asinine in its entirety is the argument of the Republicans in their ttack on the social security and old-age pension amendments, which indicates that they have no clear knowledge of the meaning and purposes of the program.

A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK.
On the day after the "Hindenburg" explosion, I had a talk with Mr. Elzey Roberts, publisher of the St. Louis Star-Times. We spoke of the disaster, and he remarked:

The disaster and he remarked:

of the disaster, and he remarked:

"It is a strange thing that just one year ago the Star-Times carried an editorial which mentioned the danger to the 'Hindenburg' many Zeppelins. Six million, seven hundred and ten thousand cubic feet of highly inflammable hydrogen gas lift its 285-ton bulk, along with 52 passengers, 56 crew, besides mail, freight and supplies."

I read the editorial with a great deal of interest, and my thoughts turned to the gas which exploded and sent one-third of those on board to their death less than three weeks ago. If the Germans had filled the gas bag with helium, they would not have lost their great airship that day.

Helium is one of the lightest gases known, though it is not quite so light as hydrogen. The name "helium" came from a Greek word meaning "sun," and this gas was observed on the sun before it was found on earth. A Frenchman saw a strange yellow line when he used a spectroscope to study the gases I read the editorial with a great troscope to study the gases the sun during an eclipse.

Two Canadian cities, Hamilton and Calgary, were pioneers in producing helium from natural gas. They extracted about 60,000 cubic The editorial read in part:

A large plant was set up at Fort Worth, Texas. Millions of cubic feet have been produced, most of the world's supply. The cost is now about $11 for one thousand cubic feet. The wreck of the Hindenburg may lead all nations which build dirigibles to fill them with helium instead of hydrogen or other dangerous gas. other dangerous gas.

AAA 'DEATH' SEEN AT THIS SESSION

Farm Bureau Official Predicts Chairman Jones Will Not Sponsor Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 28 .- (AP) A high official of the American Farm Bureau Federation predicted today that its efforts to re-write and broaden the old AAA for the purpose of controlling prices and production would fail at this session of congress.

Chester Gray, legislative representative, said that Chairman Jones, Democrat, Texas, of the purpose agriculture committee. house agriculture committee, is neither friendly nor unfriendly toward the proposed "agriculture adjustment act of 1937."

"And obviously," he added, "if it is not sponsored by the chair-man the bill cannot pass.

Secretary Wallace, supporting the bill, clashed with Jones today on the question of how much the proposed farm price stabilization efforts would cost. Their exchange occurred at a house comm hearing on the measure.

LONDON, May 28.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, taking over leadership of the government from Stanley Baldwin, tonight shuffled two important cabinet posts responsible for spending the bulk of Britain's $7,500,000,000 rearmment fund armament fund.

In an unexplained move, a few hours after he was called to Buckingham Palace to receive the seal of the premiership from King George VI, Chamberlain turned the Baldwin cabinet inside out.

Senator Byrd Says Nation Should Start To Liquidate Indebtedness.

RICHMOND, Va., May 28.—(P)
Senator Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, said here today he was convinced definite steps could be taken to place the federal government on a "pay-as-you-go basis" beginning next July and that "then we should begin to pay off our indebtedness."

Addressing students at the University of Richmond convocation, the Old Dominion's junior senator said the federal government "can continue the activities that are desirable and necessary. Hundreds of millions of dollars can be saved by retrenchment and consolida-

STATE PREPARING LAND SUIT BRIEF

Hatchery Property Is Involved in Litigation.

The attorney general's office resterday was preparing a brief in the rehearing motion brought by W. P. Montgomery in an ef-fort to prevent the state from occupying property at the Brickyard fish hatchery near Macon, Ga.

Montgomery, according to Assistant Attorney General O. H. Dukes, purchased the property from the Rural Rehabilitation Corporation subject to a lease which the state previously had entered for a period of 10 years.

Montgomery later brought in-

J. Cannon, deputy game protector, to prevent him from occupy ing the property for the state. The supreme court, Dukes said, reversed the trial court which granted the injunction, ruling in effect that injunction proceedings

Coronation Influence Will Still Be Felt in Fall Toques

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: When my husband and I were first married we were perfect sweethearts; one never went anywhere without the other. In 16 months the baby came and then things changed. The baby is big and strong and I am rather frail, so when night comes I am all in and want to sleep. We are both pretty headstrong and occustomed to having our way and both of us can't have it. My hus-band puts on his hat every night and asks me to go out with him; if I refuse he goes without me. We are making ourselves miser-able and also his family, with m we live. He thinks he's right and I think I'm right. I did want to grow old loving each other, not hating each other. Yesterday he told me he would take me home to my parents any time I said the word, which is the last thing I want. Please help us to patch things up. UNHAPPY PAIR. things up.

Answer: You and your husband are both wrong. A young papa can't be expected to stay in every evening to sit by a sleeping infant and a yawning wife. Nor can a young mama gallivant every night. But why not the good old turn about of fair play? A few sacrifices now may save you the great sacrifice of permanent separation later on. Surely stubborn refusal to give in and get together will re-sult in your hating one another.

A young wife who lets the baby sap all her strength, consume all her enthusiasm and tie her down to the crib will get exactly what she deserves and it won't be long

Time was when she could dance all night, rest her tired dogs, catch a few winks of sleep and be ready for the next ex-eltement with her flance by noon. She could keep that up for months on end. Every young pair that gets married dreams of a long life of love together, of an old age in which they will have peace and contentment. But there's a high price on the realization of that dream and those who won't pay must see it fade out. Love is the most costly thing on earth. It must be purchased on the in-stallment plan and the payments continue as long as life lasts. Common sense, self-control, unselfishness, a willingness to com-promise with the partner and in are some of the installments to be met if the dream is to

William E. Gladstone, during one of his administrations as prime minister of England, said: "Gentlemen, give us a sober citizenship not spending their earnings for drink, and I will have no trouble finding the necessary revenues for the kingdom." David Lloyd George, a later prime minister, is quoted as saying: "England's deadliest enemy economically and morally is liquor."

These testimonies from two such commanding leaders in such a commanding nation seem to answer rather definitely and conclusively those who argue that government can ever hope to realize any profit from the liquor traffic. I have watched with interest the estimate of mon-

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

OUR FRIENDS THE DENTORS. The first school of dentistry was opened in America less than 100 years ago-the first dental school in all the world. American dentists today are the best educated and the most skilful in all the world. Prior to 1839, when the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery was opened, there were no den-tists. Just doctors, who extracted teeth or treated toothache and even attempted more difficult dental operations, as an incidental of general medical practice.

I never have and never will call a dentist "Dentor," except may-be an intimate friend in fun. Had a letter today from a dentor who says he has been a reader of my articles for years, and it is only my unadulterated egotism that prompts him to express himself at this time. Then he gives me a good spanking for my one-man movement to restrict the business use of the title "Doctor" to legally licensed, practicing physicians—who had it exclusively until the dentists broke away from the medical profession—and to compel practitioners of dentistry who are not legally licensed physicians to use "Dentor" or some such designation to make known their trade. Like some other irked members of the dental profession this one proposes that physicians give up the title of "Doctor" as a trade-mark and call themselves "Medico."

The founding of the first dental school was a mistake, and the age old narrow-mindedness of the medical profession of the day was to blame for it. A physician, Dr. Harris, had applied to several medical schools to found dental ers or cherries for decoration. to practice the special branch of These are grand with simple lit- medicine known as dentistry. Bowed with weight of less than a century they stand, these den-tors, and, like the camel that got his head inside the tent, they have the gall to propose that physicians give up their 5,000-year-old trademark!

Seriously, a good many of the finest dentists agree with me that the time has come to close all dental schools and let students who wish to practice dentistry take their training in a regular medical school, graduate as bona fide M. D.'s and then pursue such special or technical courses as may be required to prepare them to practice that specialty of medicine. It is unjustifiable extravagance and waste to maintain separate schools now. MY DAY

By Eleanor

WASHINGTON, Thursday.-Yesterday afternoon I attended the garden party at the rectory of our church and just before going a storm descended upon us. It cleared up rapidly but it gave me a sense of satisfaction to have someone else anxiously watching the weather.

I did not realize until I was actually talk-ing to Mrs. Harriman on the air last night how sorry I would be to say good-bye to her. Ever since I can remember she has been a part of the Washington which I have known. I knew her before in New York, and intermittently she has been away in other places, but of late years she has seemed to belong here. I think both of us felt a little sorry when our conversation on the air ended and I wished her good luck and bon voyage.

A few people came to dinner and for the first time this year we sat out on the south portico. Afterwards the moon was full, the Washington monument lighted up and was a dazzling white with one little red light on top. Later, when the flood lights were turned off, you could only see the top of the monument clearly as it emerged from the blackness

The big magnolia tree planted by Andrew Jackson always comes into bloom very late. Its buds gleamed white in the darkness. Every now and then a silence would fall upon us, as though the beauty of the night had cast a spell which made conversation seem inappropriate.

Mrs. Scheider has gone off with Mrs. Helm to see her christen the navy ship which is to be named for her husband, so this morning I took possession of her office and felt really businesslike as I sorted the mail. Later I took Mrs. Morgenthau out to Greenbelt and at lunch on the porch, young Janet Van Loon came in to tell me of her success in some local broadcasts on government she has been doing for the Bureau of Education.

Then we all listened to Martha Gellhorn while she told us of her experiences in Spain. Some of you may have heard her broadcast from Madrid, many of you will have an opportunity to read her articles. She seems to have come back with one deep conviction: "The Spanish people are a glorious people. Something is happening in Spain which may mean much to the rest of the BEAUTY PROGRAM FOR TEEN AGE.

You schoolgirls who work so hard to lose your plumpness will be surprised at the beauty advice given by Dixie Dunbar: "Tell them," she says, "not to try to be slim. It is so much better to be ten pounds overweight than ten pounds under." And that from a

There's an amazing amount of There's an amazing amount of common sense underneath Dixie's fluffy curls. "Keeping your weight at normal," she says, "is the best guarantee of a schoolgirl complexion. With normal weight you tree less easily, and the skin is less tire less easily, and the skin is less apt to break out. Tell the 'teen age," she goes on, "to drink their milk, for there is no better beauty food than milk." Dixie knows that a good breakfast means pep for the morning, and she likes orange juice, cereal and a glass of milk.

At this age, posture is most important to your figure, for as she points out, "You can't have a good figure with poor posture." Dixie believes in dancing—tap, classical or modern—for the development of a graceful posture. All dancing does not help the posture, how-ever. Take, for example, the rhumba, which Dixie loves. It creates the habit of holding the shoulders forward, and rounded

Advice on street makeup for the 'teen age is simple: "Don't pluck your eyebrows. Let them be natural. Shape them if you wish, but do not make them too thin, as this is most unflattering. Eyeshadow for the daytime just makes you look sleepy."

Dixie's own makeup is restricted to lipstick and a tiny speck of powder on the end of her pert little nose and the tip of her chin. She even likes freckles, because they look so healthy. "Why, they are cute," she says. "Lots of stars have them!" So don't let freckles worry you, after this.

Dixie is four feet eleven and one-half inches tall and weighs between 90 and 95 pounds. She thinks she is the only girl in Hollywood who is trying to gain weight. When you weigh more, you have more pep, she says, and teen age beauty has more sparkle

Bitsy Faces Quist, Budge Meets Crawford in Cup Play Today

It took Bryan M. Grant even longer to take the U. S. T. A. than it did U. S. Grant to take Richmond-

But yesterday the good old U. S. L. T. A., waiting until the last minute, gulped out the assignment of players and our Bryan (Bitsy) Grant was on the Davis cup team at last—the highest honor that can come in tennis

A curious thing was that the tennis family of Grants didn't think so much of Bitsy. He was the half-pint kid of the family. And his brother was the best tennis prospect in a family which had seen the father as a southern doubles champion.

They had a tennis court in the back yard, where the

But at Boys' High school Bitsy Grant was better known as a basketball player than as a tennis player. He could scamper around that basketball court with all the agility of a squirrel.

He was a gadfly of tennis. He was so good they couldn't ignore him. And they didn't think he was quite good enough to Every time they decided this he would go out and beat the fellows they had placed on the team. This caused the public, which likes little fellow anyhow, to get up on its toes and indulge in the good old American custom of beefing. They beefed very loudly indeed and the U. S. L. T. A., which likes for life to flow along like a melody, was hurt and embarrassed. And there must have been times when they wished Bryan M, Grant had never been heard of at all.

He had the annoying habit of beating all their best selections and their announcements he wasn't quite good enough always sounded a bit balmy. Because the boy was beating the boys they said were good enough. This year they named him. And if Grant loses, the U. S.

L. T. A. may send out cards to all their old critics tastefully engraved with the phrase, "Nuts to you." It would be a great match to see—that one today. The Grant boy will fire both barrels.

He always does.

MUDDY, BUT UNBOWED.

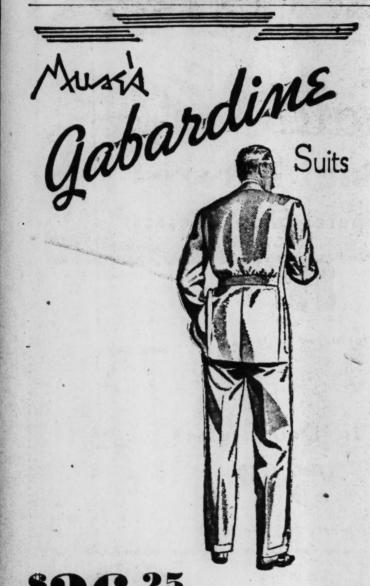

The Grant head often was muddy, but unbowed. Sitting around, trying to think up reasons why the U. S. T. A. ignored him, the boys used to think perhaps it was because he got his flannels dirty and often came off the courts looking as if he had been mining a little coal.

He went after that ball. And he slid and fell and dived and reeled. But he got the ball back. And that was what counted.

Players used to get awfully weary of Bryan M.

Their best placements came right back. And at last they'd get so they didn't care much what happened.
They wished they'd never seen tennis or heard of it.
And then Grant would take Richmond, so to speak.
Well, anyhow, the boy has arrived. He isn't play-

Figuratively, Captain Clifford Sproule, of the Australians, had his fingers crossed when he nominated Quist to keep his place in the lineup and then, at the request of Holcombe Ward, president of the U. Helen Jacobs Fails In 7th Bid for Title

PARIS, May 28.—(P)—Helen Jacobs' bid for the French hard court singles tennis championship failed today for the seventh time.

The comely Berkeley, Cal., girl, Wimbledon champion and four-times American singles title-holder, was eliminated in the quarter-final round by the hard-hitting Polish girl, Jadwiga Jedrzejowska, 6-3, 6-4.

Sent to Vols, Dwyer Refuses To Report

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 28.—
(P)—Joe Dwyer, former heavyhitting Vol, Vice President Jimmy Hamilton said tonight, has been returned to the Nashville club by Cincinnati.

But there's a hitch. Dwyer might not report for duty with Lance Richbourg's men.

The Redleg officials recently he announced he would quit basesent Joe to Syracuse but he balk-ed and instead, returned to his summer in the bushes.

STOCKS.

What Stocks Did.

NEW YORK, May 28.—(P)—In trading which sank to the lowest ebb in more than two years the stock market inched ahead fractions to a point or so today.
Sluicing a little energy into trading channels, brokers said, were the advance in the week's motor production, a slightly more than seasonal expansion in freight carloadings and recent Wall Street term steel operations.

Another factor which may have some southern groups for lower put traders in a buying mood was the casual manner in which the market has accepted news of shares, smallest since April 4, May 22 totaled 779,267 units, the 1935, and compared with 596,300

Thursday.
Share gainers of fractions to a point or so were Chrysler 113 3-8, U. S. Steel 100 3-4, Great Northern preferred 53 1-4, New York Central 45 3-8, Sears-Roebuck 86 7-8, Texas Corporation 59 1-4, Woolworth 46 1-2, Consolidated Edison 35 1-2, Socony Vacuum 18 7-8, International Harvaster 18 7-8, International Harvester 109 3-4, Union Carbide 102 and Baltimore & Ohio 32.

Down about as much were Republic Steel 35 3-8, American Smelting 90 1-4, General Electric 53 1-8, Pennsylvania 42, American Telephone 166, Anaconda 54 7-8, Cerro de Pasco 67 3-8, American Tobacco "B" 78, DuPont 156 3-4, Standard Oil of New Jersey 67 1-4, General Motors 55 3-4 and United Aircraft 25 1-8.

STOCK EXCHANGE

observance of Memorial Day, principal security and commodity mar-kets in the United States will be closed Monday.

Important exceptions are the New Orleans Cotton Exchange and the Savannah and Jacksonville naval stores markets. The New York Stock Exchange has voted to close tomorrow as well, and similar decisions were made by the New York Curb Exchange and a few commodity markets. The Chicago Stock Exchange and the securities market of the Board of Trade will be closed Saturday and Monday. Trading in grains will be conducted tomorrow, but not on Monday.

GRAND JURY MAY OKAY WIDENING WHITEHALL Indorsement by the grand jury of the proposal to widen Whitehall street from the junction of Spring street to Stewart avenue will be continued in the final presentments of the jurors, it was indicated yesterday.

Alderman Roy Callaway, sponsor of the move to relieve traffic congestion on this main traffic artery, appeared before the jury yes-terday to submit his plan for their Other concilmen may approval. be called before the jury to present their views.

Callaway proposes the street be widened 16 feet between this two points and that the expense be borne jointly by the state, city, county and federal governments.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—With the fundamental facts of business bright, and with the disappearance of many of the fears of the past few weeks, we believe that the investors should disregard disturbances and uncertainties of a minor nature and should base his policy on fundamentals which govern the outlook for the intermediate and longer term.

FENNER & BEANE—We still regard another selling movement as a possiother selling movement as a possi-ity although we would be inclined to rchase well situated stocks on recessions
THOMSON & McKINNON—A cautious frame of mind in Wall Street is noted as the holiday week end approaches.

COTTON OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—We would not be inclined to expect activity, but we believe moderate profits can be realized by purchases on any sudden breaks.

FENNER & BEANE—We look for a trading market around these levels pending more light on the acreage and cropoutlook, but believe purchases on good dips will prove the best policy.

THOMSON & MCKINNON—We cannot see more than a trading market for the present.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.—The market turned steadier in late trading, again reflecting the responsiveness to moderate buying.

COURTS & CO.—We would not disturb short positions and believe further sales can be made whenever strength develops. FENNER & BEANE—For the immediate future it probably will be hard to hold bulges.
THOMSON & McKINNON—Feel that on basis of world prices, supply and demand prospects, Chicago wheat now undervalued.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.—After early firmness the cottonseed oil futures market encountered long liquidation and some local selling caused by disappointment in lack of follow through buying.

Most Interest Is Centered on Approaching Memorial Day Holiday. Daily Bond Averages.

NEW YORK, May 28.-(A)-Showing little disposition to buy or sell investors left loans to drift aimlessly in the bond market today. Federal and domestic railroad loans improved a little, the former recording gains up to 11-32 of a point.

Most of the interest in investment circles appeared to center on the approaching Memorial Day holiday extending from tonight until Tuesday. Dealers and traders were ready and willing to terminate a week in which the daily, average turnover was less than that of a normal Saturday. The chief reason for this dullness, virtually all observers agreed, was uncertainty over the government's mid-June financing plans which will be announced June 7.

While the main body of active bonds displayed lifting tendencies. gains were held to small dimen-sions by the languid nature of trading. Turnover for all bonds totaled $6,555,000, face value, compared with $6,371,000 Thursday.

The Associated Press averages showed the best progress was made in the foreign and highgrade domestic corporate sections.
The 10 foreign issues improved .3 of a point to 71.8 and the 10 low yield corporates advanced .2 of point to 110.6.

Standout movements were regaistered in several sections of the corporate division. Alleghany Corporation issues were conspicuous gainers following the ment by new owners of the Van Sweringen rail dynasty the top holding company would be merged into Chesapeake Corporation.

"HONEY, HONEY, BLESS YO' HEART_"

Yesterday afternoon out at Grant field I met Mr. Harry Mehre, coach of the Georgia Bulldogs.

The A. A. U. track people were galloping around the track, coming right back to the spot they had left before in very short time. And others were giving the discus a heave-o. While others were leaping.

But Mr. Harry Mehre was humming the chorus to that song:

"Honey, Honey, Bless Yo' Heart."

"How comes all the music?" "Have you seen the results of the 100-yard dash?" "I'm on my way to see it now."
"Honey, Honey, Bless Yo' Heart," hummed Mr.

Mehre, as he went strolling on. I found that his sophomore halfback for 1937, a freshman of this year, had run the 100 yards in 9.8 seconds in one of the afternoon heats.

And the young man's name is "Vas" Hunnicut. He was just one second behind his teammate, Bob Packard, a member of the Olympic team.

That's stepping. And I knew what was in Mr. Mehre's mind. He was thinking about what a sight it would be next fall if that young man "Vas" Hunnicut should get loose around end and start picking them up and putting them down.

Although Liverpool cables were not up to expectations initial trades here were slightly higher due to some trade and foreign buying. The latter was attributed to brokers with far eastern conspectations.

President Says Bill Is on 'Ought' List-Not 'Must' Category.

WASHINGTON, May 28 .- (UP) President Roosevelt today put the new farm program embodying Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's idea of an "ever normal granary" on the congressional assignment list for the session.

He made known his desires at a press conference. Mr. Roosevelt said the new farm program was on the "ought" list. Newsmen used to refer to the items on this list as "must," but the President told them he hasn't sent congress a "must" bill since the early days of the New Deal.

Wallace and Chairman Jones, Democrat, Texas, disagreed at a hearing of the house agriculture committee over the cost of the farm program. Jones maintained it will require from $800,000,000 to $1,-500,000,000. Wallace estimates the cost at $400,000,000.

The farm program would oper-

The government would name parity price for a major crop, such as $1 a bushel for corn. If national production happened to be two and one-half billion bushels and consumption only two and one-quarter billion, the government would urge farmers to hold the tion of the crop in excess of the allotment.

MRS. WALLY MORTON.

CLAYTON, Ga., May 28.—Mrs. Wally Morton, 82, pioneer Rabun county woman, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Bertle Potteet, at Wiley.

Mrs. Morton was a sister of the late Hirum Raleigh Cannon, of Atlanta, who founded the Cannon chain of hotels. Her father, Horace W. Cannon, was a member of the state general assembly for more than 30 years.

She is survived by three sons, five daughters, one sister, Mrs. J. E. Bleckley, of Clayton: one brother, Dr. J. A. Cannon, of Pickens, S. C., and a number of grandchildren and other relatives.

surplus and would loan them 85 cents a bushel. When the market rose to $1 or more, the farmers would be advised to sell.

To prevent the surplus from growing from year to year it would attempt to control production:

1. By increasing AAA diversion payments.

2. By a virtually compulsory reduction allotment through a tax of 66 2-3 per cent on that portion of the crop in excess of the
